Weekly Newsletter—Friday 24th April

Welcome back!

Good afternoon everyone,

As always, it's been a busy week in school, particularly as we welcomed OFSTED to the school earlier in the week. Unsurprisingly, the children were an absolute credit to our school and community throughout the visit and gave a brilliant account of themselves.

Thank you also to all of the parents who either provided the inspectors with feedback on the playground or filled in the survey that was sent. Having your feedback was really useful and it was great to have your support.

Unfortunately, we are not yet in a position to share exact details as to how the inspection went but will be doing so in the near future.

Hope you all have a brilliant weekend and fingers crossed for more sunshine.

Chicks visit F2!

This week in F2, we have had really exciting things happening! On Monday, we had incubators and eggs brought to school and the children have been observing these very closely throughout the week. To the children's great delight a number of the eggs have hatched and we have been joined by some chicks.

All week, the children have been thinking of names for the chicks and building different buildings and cities to house the chicks in. It has really supported the children's learning this week as well as providing the children with lots of fun and happy memories! Here is Orla absolutely loving observing the chicks with her classmates.

Who is the athlete visiting our school?

As mentioned previously, in Week 6 of this term we will be having a whole school sports week in which we hope to bring lots of exciting sporting experiences to our children. On that week we will be having a professional athlete join us in school. Here are some clues to see if you can work out who it is:

1. He is a Great British winter Olympian.
2. His sport takes place on ice.
3. His main job is to push something as fast as he can at the beginning of his event.

Can you work out who it might be? Let me know on the playground/gate next week if you have any guesses!

Thursday 21st May- Maggie's event to remember Donna Mellor

On Thursday 21st May, we will be hosting a race for life event in which we will be inviting all parents to join us to run with their child all to raise money for Maggie's charity. This charity was particularly close to Donna's heart and the whole day will be not only a way to raise money but also provide us with a chance to remember Donna in a way that she would have loved. More details will follow.

Riddle of the week for children and adults:

What has many keys but can't open a single lock?

Last week's answer: Footsteps
